Partnering for better outcomes

DryMate

The money saving service

Optimization of the grain drying process

In contrast to conventional moisture control systems, DryMate is able to automatically optimize the entire drying process. It also means you'll be constantly connected to Bühler's best practice know-how, as part of a comprehensive digital partnership.

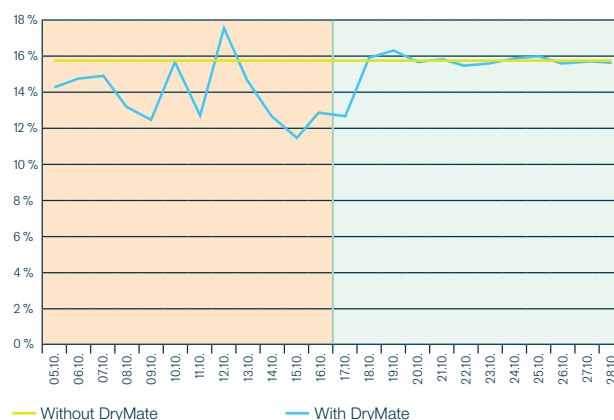

That's why we don't just offer a conventional automatic moisture control system, but a comprehensive digital partnership.

Advantages

- Maximum sales yield
- Consistently high product quality
- Minimal operating costs
- Full process transparency

Through this partnership we offer:

- Access to a state-of-the-art automatic moisture control system with tried and tested algorithms based on Bühler's best practice knowledge.
- Continuous feedback for the plant managers via a user-friendly dashboard.
- Automatically updated displays of savings and additional revenues.
- Personalized technology reports with recommendations for continuous process improvement.

Benefits

Sustainability

Full drying process transparency with more sustainable production, less waste, and energy

Innovation

Regular technology reports to enable continuous improvement

Higher profit

Lower operational costs and higher sales yield
